About Visco-Elastic Memory Foam

Sleep Comfort

A good mattress should provide support while allowing for the natural curves and alignment of the spine.

*Keep your neck and spine in perfect alignment. Relax your spine to rest in its nature position.

Memory Foam is the material that will provide the perfect support and naturally keep the spine in natural curve.

Memory foam is a temperature sensitive visco-elastic material.

This material becomes softer (more elastic) in warmer areas where your body is making the most contact with the surface and remains firmer (more viscous) in cooler areas where less body contact is being made. If you lie down on your back, the heaviest parts of your body, typically your hips, sink in further than the lighter parts, like your feet. As your hips sink in, the material rises to meet your upper thighs and lower back eventually filling any gaps along the contour of the back of your body. As the material molds to your shape, your body becomes supported in the correct anatomical position with your neck and spine in perfect alignment. Memory foam helps the body relieve pressure, prevents back pain, and greatly reduces the need to toss and turn throughout the night.

Healthy Sleep

Super low rebound and pressure released function

Memory Foam has high efficiency shock absorption. The impact on this material from a high speed raw egg, the egg will not bounce high or break. This proves the material is able to absorb the impact from outside and distribute the pressure equally and solves the stress caused by rebound and brings you the healthy sleep with no stress.

No sleep disturbance

As each point of the memory foam surface reacts to the weight and pressure independently, when toss and turn will not disturb each other.

The picture indicates that traditional spring mattress usually make the waist hanging in air, pressure point focus on back and hips, and causes muscle too tight and easy to cause pain point and discomfort.

Relieving pressure points: important factor for healthy sleep

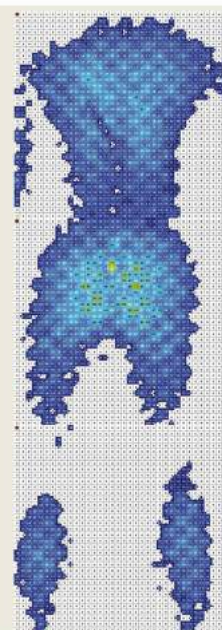

Using electronic equipment to measure the body weight support during sleep will let us understand the importance of how pressure can affect a healthy sleep. Base on the following picture of weight distribution color zone vs. body pressure, we can clearly see the memory foam mattress reflects low pressure points between mattress and body pressure, and reduce the blood vessel stress during sleep and make circulation flows smoothly, relax the body and avoid pain. The light blue and blue zone indicates low pressure points which is the main factor of healthy sleep. Yellow, and red zone indicates the high pressure points which is very easy for pain point to form and cause discomfort. This proves that the pressure relief function of memory foam mattress is much better than spring mattress.

The 15 sizes Ergonomic Memory Foam Pillow

The human neck curves slightly forward when standing upright and it is important to maintain this curve when in a resting position. If the height of the pillow is too high or too low, the neck is bent abnormally forward, backward or to the side, it will cause muscle strain on the back of the neck and shoulders. This type of position may also cause narrowing of the air pipe, resulting in obstructed breathing, and sometimes snoring, which can lower sleeping quality.

- a) Depth of shoulder
- b) Length of neck
- c) Shape of head

Memory Foam Pillow is designed to keep the spine in natural alignment The temperature sensitive memory foam pillow is dual-lobed and cervical in design. They provide proper neck support; the properly aligning your head and neck with your spine reduce stress on your neck and provide customized support. With better alignment of the breathing passage, the memory foam pillow helps to reduce the likelihood of snoring. The customized support also will prevent many common forms of back pain and neck pain.

A good pillow should properly support the natural curvature of the cervical spine, with adequate support under the head, neck, and shoulders.

Not all the pillows work well for everyone. It is important to note that different firmness mattress needs to have different pillows to pair with. Therefore, we have design 15 sizes ergonomics memory foam pillow to fit every one's standard.
